It's been a really interesting week in Pisa at the ERA4CS Summer School with the topic 'Climate Services from the users' perspective'! Learned a lot about the impact of the climate change and how to involve end users in a climate service. This will be of great use in the project of my PhD: ClimApp! The aim of this project is to develop an app to improve decision-making when facing climate challenges. More information can be found on our webpage: www.lth.se/climapp
